

Special Issue on Human Rights
in the Time of COVID-19
JHR 19.5 (Nov-Dec 2020)

INTRODUCTION

Shareen Hertel, Catherine Buerger, and Benjamin Carbonetti

CENTERING RIGHTS-BASED THEORY AND PRAXIS

Revisiting Interdependence in Times and Terms of Crisis—Michael Goodhart

Gendering Pandemics: Implications for Prevention and Response—Kimberly Theidon

Civil Society and Rights-based Action in Times of Crisis—Kathryn Libal and Prakash Kashwan

RE-EXAMINING HEALTH

Global Health and Human Rights in the time of COVID: Response, restrictions, legitimacy—Lisa Forman and Jillian Clare Kohler

HR Obligations of Drug Companies—Michael Santoro and Robert Shanklin

The cost of COVID-19 in Human Rights: Unintended Consequences of Ending a Pandemic— Wendy H. Wong and Eileen A. Wong

CONTESTING POWER & CONTROL

Legal Empowerment for Justice in the Context of COVID—Sukti Dhital and Tyler Walton

Freedom of Movement, Migration & Borders —Jaya Ramji-Nogales and Iris Goldner Lang

State Surveillance and the COVID Crisis—Kristine Eck and Sophia Hatz

Forced Confinement: Exposing Inmates and Detainees—Didier Fassin

RE-STRUCTURING FOR SOLIDARITY

Precarity of Access to Education, Housing and Work—Philip Harvey

Assessing Bailouts and Rescues: The Business & Human Rights Dimension—Anita Ramasastry